Serious Insinuations Against Former Compradore

INSURGENT OFFENSIVE ON MALAGA

Fleet Takes Active Part In Operations

FUENGIROLA CAPTURED

Gibraltar, February 6.
The insurgents announce that they have captured Fuengirola, twenty miles to the southwest of Malaga. The fleet took an active part in the engagement in which there were many casualties on both sides.

The insurgents hope to be in the outskirts of Malaga in a couple of days.—Reuter.

WARSHIP BOMBED

Madrid, Feb. 6.
It is reported that the Government forces gained ground in the thrust towards Toledo. The Government is now controlling the whole food supply in Madrid. In the north, the Government artillery is bombarding Oviedo and a village near Gijon.

An Almeria message states that an insurgent cruiser bombarded Malaga and later Government aeroplanes bombed the warship, the encounter lasting half an hour. The result is not known.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

BRIDGES BLOW UP

London, Feb. 6.
An insurgent radio message asserts that General Kleber, former commander of Madrid's International Brigade, has arrived at Malaga to organise resistance against the insurgents.

Earlier reports from Spain of attacks by insurgents have petered out. However, the insurgents claim that six of their columns pressing on Malaga are meeting with no great resistance, and declare that the advance has been (Continued on Back Page)

Miss Ethel Morrison's Claim For $29,000

Possibility Of Criminal Proceedings

WHEN MR. CHOA PO-SIN, FORMER COMPRADORE OF THE FRENCH BANK APPEARED BEFORE HIS HONOUR THE CHIEF JUSTICE, SIR ATHOLL MACGREGOR, AT THE BANKRUPTCY COURT ON SATURDAY FOR HIS PUBLIC EXAMINATION, MISS ETHEL MORRISON, ONE OF THE CREDITORS, MADE SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS AGAINST HIM IN CONNECTION WITH SOME SHARES SHE HAD PLACED IN HIS CHARGE WHICH MR. CHOA ADMITTED THAT HE HAD SOLD, BUT ADDED THAT THERE WAS AN UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN THEM, AND THAT THIS HAD GIVEN HIM FULL LIBERTY OF ACTION.

The debtor was closely questioned by Sir Atholl, and after Miss Morrison had made a certain statement, His Lordship told her that there is a remedy open to her in another Court on the facts she had stated. Mr. J. B. Prentis, the acting Official Receiver, then remarked that if there was a possibility of criminal proceedings, it would be advisable to keep open the public examination until the next Session of the Bankruptcy Court and an order to that effect was made by His Lordship.

Mr. J. B. Prentis (Official Receiver) stated that at the first meeting of the creditors no resolution was passed because there was not the majority; there being $28,000 against and $20,000 in favour. At the adjourned meeting, $80,000 were in favour and $29,000 against which was a majority.

His Lordship then made the order for adjudication and the public examination was commenced.

From the witness box, Choa Po-sin told the Court that he had no alias and no tong names. He was born in Hong Kong and was educated at the Diocesan Boys' School and left there in 1900.

"After leaving school," said the witness, "I was employed at the China Sugar Refinery Company Limited but received no salary.

At that time my father was compradore of the firm. On the death of my father in 1910 I became compradore. I inherited $5,000 from my father's estate. In 1923 I became the owner of property Nos. 3, 4 and 5 at Blacksmith Lane."

Mr. Prentis: Why was it necessary in that year to raise $25,000 on these properties?

DEADLOCK CONTINUES IN MOTOR STRIKE

Union Demands Recognition As Bargaining Agency

OTHER QUESTIONS ADJUSTED

Detroit, February 8.
The conferees seeking a settlement in the motor strike met again and apparently the deadlock continues on the question of recognition of the Union as the sole bargaining agency in twenty factories which were closed by the strike.

Well-informed circles state that the conferees are definitely seeking a settlement rather than a truce. Meanwhile, tension is easing at Flint, Michigan, as the belief spreads that there will be no forcible ejection of sit-down strikers.

The strike conference has adjourned until Monday.

Governor Murphy in a statement asserts that nearly all questions have been "adjusted harmoniously" with the exception of the Union's demand for its recognition as the exclusive bargaining agency for all the employees of twenty factories closed by the strike.

General Motors Corporation, Governor Murphy said, offered to recognise the Union as the bargaining agency for its members only, reserving the right to deal (Continued on Back Page)

Pretty Kowloon Wedding

Rosary Church Ceremony

ALVARES-BOTELHO

Miss Maria Socorro Botelho, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P.V. Botelho, was married to Mr. Alfred Victor Alvares, at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Father G. Rossi officiated at the ceremony.

Given away by Mr. Arnaldo G. Botelho (brother), the bride looked charming in an American model gown of white satin crepe cut on simple lines. Wide Bishop sleeves and an Elizabethan collar, finished with two pearl-clips, were features of the gown. A snugly fitting cap of lace trimmed with an eye veil of sufficed tulle was attached to the long tulle veil edged with fine lace.

The bridal dress and all accessories were by Messrs. Lane, Crawford Ltd.

China's Mineral Sources Exploited

Nanking, January 28 (By Mail).
Mineral resources in Yunnan and Hunan will be exploited, according to messages from Kunming and Changsha, capitals of the two provinces.

Preparations are being made by several industrial leaders at Kunming to establish a "Yunnan Provincial Mining Corporation" with a capital of 34,000,000 for exploiting tin, gold, silver, and copper mines in the province.

Near Montze, 70 li south of Kaiyuan, a metal refinery will be constructed, which, when completed, will be capable of refining 600 tons of metal ores daily. Many mining experts invited by the company are leaving for Kaiyuan to make necessary preparations.

As a preliminary step toward the exploitation of mineral resources in Hunan, several overseas Chinese organizations in the South Seas have sent Messrs. Yang Min-hwei and Chang Kuan-yi to the mineral districts in that province, including Leliang, Tzeshing, and Chinghsien, to conduct a thorough investigation of the mines.

Hunan, it is understood, is the centre of the Chinese supply of antimony ore to the rest of the world. Lead and zinc deposits are found in the south and tin mines close to the border. There are also gold, coal, and iron mines in the province.—Central News Agency.

Fifty Years Of Science

The Search For Knowledge

RADIUM BLOWS UP THE ATOM

A year is all too short a time in the annals of science; fifty years is not too long for the growth of an idea from birth to maturity. But, owing to the spread of concerted inquiry all over the world, a few years may now suffice for the swift development of a new method and for the garnering of a crop of results.

Geology and its offspring, the study of fossils, both depending on observation unsupported by experiments, have lately offered an illustration of slow movement. It is nearly fifty years ago since Dr. Eugene Dubois found in Java what was thought to be the earliest human skull, and named it "Pithecanthropus Erectus," the Ape Man who walks upright.

For more than a generation this skull remained secluded, by the wish of its discoverer, who now emerges to declare that the descent of man must be sought in other skulls, and that Pithecanthropus was only a gibbon which could walk upright and had a larger brain and frame than its contemporaries.

Geology furnishes another illustration of a seeming pause in scientific thought fifty years ago. At that time Lord Kelvin refused to allow more than fifty million years for the Age of the Earth, whatever the geologists might say, and they had not then the arguments of radium to answer him.

A PAUSE

This pause in thought was not real, though it may seem that at that time science was leaning on its ears, surveying with complacency the achievements of Natural Selection, the Theory of Heat and Energy, the Atomic Table of the Elements in the realm of thought, and the products of Faraday's genius in the world of invention. The electron and the invisible ray were as unknown as the aeroplane, the wireless, or the factors of the germ cell.

Yet, even in that deceptive pause, the experimenters were getting ready. They were rediscovering Gregor Mendel, and, by repeating his experiments in heredity, were preparing to challenge Natural Selection. At Cambridge, Clerk Maxwell had just started the train of ideas which has not stopped till it has made light and electricity, matter and energy, one thing.

Helmholtz, in Germany, was saying that if there were atoms of matter there should be atoms of electricity. He had set his pupil, Hertz, seeking for proof of the action at a distance of Maxwell's electro-magnetic waves. Out of that successful search sprang wireless.

FIRST WIRELESS WAVES

Here we may turn aside to reflect that the development of that which even to-day seems a world-wide miracle was delayed twenty years by the occasional impermeability of the best scientific minds to a new idea. David Hughes undeniably sent wireless waves in 1880 and caught them on his home-made receiver. But a small committee of the Royal Society, including Sir Gabriel Stokes, whom he invited to his lodgings in Tottenham Court-road to see his experiments, mistook their meaning, and fobbed off the disappointed Hughes, an inventor rather than a theorist, with the forbidding and mistaken explanation of electric induction.

This was not an isolated example of the sort of scientific inertia of the time. Sir Arthur Schuster, who had much difficulty in convincing his earlier contemporaries of the material existence of molecules, tells a story of Clerk Maxwell and Todhunter. Clerk Maxwell had been at pains to cut a doubly refracting crystal so as to show the rare phenomenon of conical refraction, and was eager to show it to the mathematician. But Todhunter would have none of it. "I have been teaching it all my life," he said, "and I do not want all my ideas upset by seeing it."

FILM CAMERAS.

Yet the new ideas and inventions were boring in their way in. Crookes was making his vacuum tubes, J. J. Thomson was investigating the discharge of electricity through gases, the telephone call had been heard, two little remembered inventors, Friese Green and Le Prince had made film cameras and Friese Green had employed the first strip of celluloid film for photographs at Hyde Park corner. The invisible ray was on the verge of manifesting itself. Its existence came with Roentgen's discovery of the X-rays in 1895.

The story of his discovery has often been told. Chance favoured his prepared mind. Someone about that time remarked in the presence of Sir Gabriel Stokes that the physicist Leonard had also had the rays in his head. "Yes," agreed Stokes. "Leonard may have had the Roentgen rays in his head, but Roentgen got them into other people's bones."

After Roentgen came Becquerel, with rays emanating from radioactive minerals, and after Becquerel the Curies, and radium. Radium blew up the atom, and science is still picking up the pieces: protons, electrons, positrons, neutrons. Each year it seems that a new fragment is added.

NEW RAYS.

The twentieth century may claim with a complacency equal to that of science half a century ago that all this new knowledge is its own. It can add to it new rays, including the cosmic rays, and an appreciation of their nature and properties, and there is hardly a branch of knowledge which it has not speeded-up by mass attack.

The new biochemistry, the chemistry of living matter, is a creation of this century, and during what seems a very few years—essential chemicals of the human body—insulin, thyroxine, and adrenalin, have been made in the laboratory. The vitamins are also on the way. In the realm of food the wheat-breeders add every year millions of acres to the world's production; a remarkable outcome of the Mendelian ideas. The chemical industries, besides adding new drugs for the fight against disease, have drawn nitrogen from the air for fertilisers against famine.

New gases, new lighting—an approach to within less than a thousandth of a degree of that temperature of absolute zero, established theoretically by Lord Kelvin, are all among our recent achievements. The most astonishing of them, hardly twenty years old, comes from the astronomers. Fifty years ago there was but one universe, the Milky Way. Now it has unnumbered companions, the island universes of the realm of the nebulae.

Strengthen your body against Feverish Diseases

The chance of catching malaria and other feverish diseases is far greater, if the power of resistance is lowered. Lack of minerals in the body usually causes this lowering. Tiredness, heart troubles, irritability and dizziness are signs that your power of resistance is below par.

Prevent serious trouble by taking Kalzana tablets regularly. Kalzana replenishes the mineral content of the body and blood cells in a perfectly natural way, strengthens the whole system, and so prevents serious infectious diseases, such as malaria, skin rashes, etc.

A grateful Kalzana user,

Doors Locked On Lord Leverhulme's Bride

The doors of St. Ethelburga's Church, Bishopsgate, London, closed to prevent "gate crashing" before Viscount Leverhulme's wedding recently, also kept the bride out when she arrived. Friends had to rattle the knocker vigorously before she could gain entrance to the church.

Lord Leverhulme's bride was Mrs. Winifred Agnes Lee Morris, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. J. E. Lloyd, Brentwood, Bidston, Cheshire. The religious service, which was attended by a large number of guests, was preceded by a civil ceremony at the Guildhall. It was conducted by Dr. W. F. Gekkie-Cobb, the rector. The church was decorated with spring flowers and large bunches of heather.

Very strict orders had been given that no unauthorised persons should be admitted to the church. A crowd, however, gathered to watch the guests arrive.

Lord Leverhulme was accompanied by his son, the Hon. Philip Lever, who acted as best man. He raised his hat and smiled at the crowd as he hurried into the church.

The bride, who was accompanied by her father, wore a gown of wine-red crepe beneath a coat of black broadtail, and a halo hat of black velvet. A large spray of orchids was pinned to her shoulder.

Lord Leverhulme's daughter, the Hon. Rosemary Lever, was among those present.

After the ceremony a family luncheon party was held at the Dorchester Hotel. The honeymoon is to be spent cruising abroad.

A nature writer says that a close study shows that with the wasp there is a place for everything. And usually it is in the jam in the summer.

SIR GEORGE HUNTER

OLDEST NAVAL ARCHITECT

Sir George Burton Hunter, who died at his home at Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne, a few weeks ago in his ninety-second year, was long a notable figure in the shipbuilding industry of the North-East Coast and indeed of the whole country, for the operations of the great shipbuilding and engineering firm of Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson, of which he was chairman until 1923, extended far beyond Tyneside.

He was the oldest naval architect in the country and a member of the Institution of Naval Architects and of the Institution of Civil Engineers for over half a century, and although he had retired from the active management of Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson, of which he had been chairman for more than 55 years, he still retained an active association with the company and was to be seen regularly at his office desk until a few years ago.

During his long connexion with ship building he saw many changes. When he became an apprentice the day of the wooden ship was all but past, and iron was coming into general use, to be superseded a decade or two later by steel. The mechanical equipment of the yards was then scanty and primitive, and the weights of material handled small, while the vessels with which he had to deal were of only a few hundred tons. In the years which followed thousands of vessels were built by the company and thousands more came there from all corners of the world for repairs. But their chief pride was the construction and fitting out of the Cunard liner Mauretania, 30,000 tons, sister ship of the Lusitania, and the most famous merchant ship ever launched on the Tyne. She survived the War and for nearly 30 years held the records for Atlantic crossings both ways. There was universal regret when she was withdrawn for breaking up.

During the War the company built over 100 warships of various types. Engines reaching a total of more than 2,000,000 h.p. were installed in them, and over 700 ships were treated for repairs. Since the War the most important contract has been the 50,000-ton floating dock for the naval base at Singapore.

Sir George was a well-known figure on Tyneside. He invariably wore a blue reefer suit, often with a yachting cap. He was at his desk from 10 to 6, except on Saturdays, when he left at 4. He enjoyed wonderful health and vitality, and even till the last years of his long life maintained the variety of his interests. He was regarded as a fair and just employer, and his workmen often found occasion to express their respect and admiration for him. He was made a K.B.E. in 1918 for his services in the War, and was a D.Sc. of Durham and a J.P. for Northumberland and Walsdale. He married in 1873 Ann, the daughter of the late Mr. Charles Hudson, of Whitby, and a niece of George Hudson, the "Railway King." They had two sons and three daughters. She died in 1927 just before he retired. One daughter is married to Sir Robert Greig, who has been Permanent Secretary to the Scottish Department of Agriculture.

LOST GOLF BALLS

Sir John Simon's plea for a golf ball, which, when it alights, emits a squeaky S.O.S. every ten seconds and so assists the player to locate it, is a reminder of other devices for discovering lost balls. About five years ago a Californian golfing chemist tried the method of treating golf balls with a chemical scent which has a great attraction for butterflies. His argument was that when the ball fell in the rough the player would be attracted to the spot easily by the crowd of butterflies which would be mobbing it. The idea has not been taken up generally, perhaps, because the butterfly season is not sufficiently prolonged.

To get over this difficulty, another American tried coating the balls with carbon bisulphide and leaving it to the players to nose out their "losers" by themselves. The thought of General Forecure sniffing the links like some new sort of bloodhound is fascinating, and it is a pity the "sneller" did not succeed.

Profitable Exchange

"Yes Fieasé," a racehorse which was bartered for a cow by a Sussex farmer a year ago, won the Newleaf Maiden Hurdle Race at Lingfield a few weeks ago.

The horse is now owned by Mr. H. Geering. It was a three-year-old when bartered, and has been trained by Mr. R. Thrale at Ad-dington, Surrey.

"Yes, Please" won at 100-6 and beat the fancied Smoke-9-4—by a length and a half. The 2-1 favourite, Birthday Honours, was unplaced.

Parasol, which started at 4-1 and finished fourth, was a 4,200-guinea purchase of Mr. J. V. Rank at the Doncaster Yearling Sales.

LIMITATION OF NAVAL GUNS

ITALY'S ACCEPTANCE

A step has been taken towards making the London Naval Treaty of 1936 effective. The Italian Government recently signified their willingness to give an undertaking not to mount guns exceeding 14in. calibre in future capital ships, provided that all important naval Powers accept the same limitation. It now needs only a similar intimation from Japan to make it almost certain that this particular limitation will come into force.

The situation in this matter is still somewhat complex. Article 4 of the treaty says down that the limit for capital ships' guns is to be 14in., provided that all the five Washington Powers shall have agreed to conform to this limitation by the time the treaty comes into force, or in any case by April 1, 1937. Failing such agreement, the limit is to be 16in.

Italy's promised acceptance is still contingent upon acceptance by all the other important naval Powers, including others besides those of the Washington Treaty. It is understood, however, that although the British negotiations with Germany and Russia for naval agreements similar to the London Treaty are not yet complete, no difficulty over this particular point is expected. The 14in. limit would thus become operative if Japan were to accept it. On the other hand, failing any action by Japan, the 16in. limit will become operative when the treaty comes into force through its ratification by France and this country, or in any case on April 1 next.

This matter of the 14in. limit is indeed crucial. If the limit be raised to 16in., there is a danger that, when the Treaty came up for revision in six years' time, there would be demand for increase of the 35,000-ton limit of displacement, thereby restarting the growth that was arrested in 1922 by the Washington Treaty; whereas if the 14in. limit be accepted, it is unlikely that a case could be made out for an increase in displacement.

The Italian intimation was passed on by the British Government to those of France and the United States, the other signatories of the London Treaty.

MALICIOUS SLANDER

DUKE OF KENT AND MRS. ALLEN

On December 31 last the Duke of Kent accompanied Mrs. William Allen on a visit to a phrenologist in Fleet-street.

The consequences of that visit have been ludicrous and to members of the Royal Family and Mrs. Allen—extremely painful.

His Royal Highness has been the recipient of a flood of letters, most of them anonymous, describing the occasion in terms varying from crude innuendo to open accusation.

The writers appear to have accepted the visit to the phrenologist as evidence of an illicit romance between the Duke and Mrs. Allen.

It is easy enough to dismiss the writers of anonymous letters as warped and ignorant persons. But it has been found that suggestions of the same kind are being made in the form of rumours which every day gain wider circulation and assume more fantastic form.

Rumour's latest guise is that, in consequence of the Duke's relationship with Mrs. Allen, divorce proceedings have already been instituted by her husband.

These rumours are a classic example of that vilification of the most ordinary happenings in the pursuit of gossip and scandal.

For the last three years Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Allen have been living almost entirely in Ireland. On one of their rare visits to London Mrs. Allen, who had been a friend of the Duke's since his midshipman days, called at Belgrave-square in the afternoon to see the Duchess and her newly-born daughter.

She told the Duke that she had arranged to "have her head read" at a phrenologist's. The Duke, unable to be with his wife between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. because her doctors prescribed complete rest in the afternoon, offered to drive Mrs. Allen to the place of her appointment, and on arriving there, acting on a momentary impulse, had a consultation himself.

The fact that the place was in Fleet-street, the heart of newspaper-land, bustling at all hours with vigilant photographers and lynx-eyed reporters, showed up the

AS YOU LIKE IT

Miss Bergner, who is starred in Shakespeare's "As You Like It," Twentieth Century-Fox release need no urging or prompting in selecting the theatre as her life work.

Elisabeth became entranced with the theatre when just a child. Her parents, ardent patrons of the stage, took her to almost every production that appeared in Vienna, and the little girl was so impressed with the glamour and enchantment of the world beyond the footlights that, even at play, her thoughts were only of the great day when she, herself, would appear on the stage.

Max Reinhardt was Elisabeth's tutor, after she had completed her preliminary work, and it was under his brilliant tutelage that she first established her reputation in Berlin and became a star.

Love, life and laughter—"As You Like It"—and entertainment to your heart's desire awaits every moviegoer in the screen picturization of Shakespeare's "As You Like It," which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

Starring to-day's most lauded and applauded star, Elisabeth Bergner, the film is a lusty, gusty triumph of bawling abandon, brought to the screen with all the wild hilarity and riotous revelry that Shakespeare wrote into its merry plot.

Lovers, plotters, forbidden trysts, disguises, duels, jousts, jokes, kisses, sighs, surprise—all the uproarious hoy of this gayest of plays has been incorporated in this glorious picture.

Miss Bergner, of course, plays Rosalind, with the cast also featuring Laurence Olivier, Henry Arnley and Sophie Stewart.

Paul Czinner directed and produced the film.

HEARTS DIVIDED

Never has the beautiful star, Marion Davies, appeared in a more entertaining and gripping romance than in her latest Cosmopolitan production, "Hearts Divided," which is showing at the King's Theatre to-day.

This story of the wooing and winning of the brilliant and beautiful Bessy Patterson of Baltimore by Captain Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the French emperor, is a real heart throbbing drama.

The picture is a lavish one, with mammoth sets and colourful back-grounds, while the women costumed in the gorgeous Empire gowns of the period. Picturesque scenes take place in the Patterson mansion and estate and in the palace of the emperor of France.

There is plenty of thrilling action in addition to the somewhat tangled up romance in which Jerome woos his lady love inognito and against the wishes of the emperor. But this madcap adventure hurls his thundering denance at his powerful brother and brings his wooing to a climax in whirlwind fashion.

Thieves have made two unsuccessful attempts to break into a Manchester bank. They must think there is money in it.

Young Trainer's Feat

SILVER INDIGESTION

John M. Gosden, the Sussex trainer, who performed a notable feat at Windsor recently by saddling four successive winners, is one of a band of young trainers who branched into racing as an amateur.

A few years ago he took to riding under National Hunt rules. He was never very prominent as a rider, but was so keen on racing that he settled down in a small way as a trainer. Today he has at least ten patrons and a nice string of jumpers.

So far he has not made his mark as a trainer of flat race horses, but that is because he has not had the opportunity. There is plenty of time for him to do that. His latest feat is sufficient testimony to his skill.

Others who blossomed out as trainers, after experience of riding, were Basil Briscoe, John Biscoe and Gerald Wellesley.

Among the older trainers Ivor and Jack Anthony, Harry and Frank Brown, Frank and Hubert Hartigan, Stanley Harrison, the Hon. George Lambton, H.S. Perse and Captain Percy Whitaker were all notable amateur riders before they took to training.

The only ones to turn professional were the brothers Anthony. Ivor, on being asked why he had done so, made the time-honoured remark that his digestion had at last revolted against silver cigarette cases.

As amateur riders cannot receive money for riding a winner, they usually get a present. In the case of Anthony the gifts seemed to be mostly silver cigarette cases.

EAGLE'S BROOD

Red blooded action, hair raising thrills, spectacular horsemanship and gun battles galore in the typical Western manner make the second in the series or the famous Clarence E. Mulford "Hopalong Cassidy" stories to come to the screen, "The Eagle's Brood" an outstanding production. It is now at the Star Theatre.

Measuring up to the same high standard of the first Mulford film, "Hopalong Cassidy," "The Eagle's Brood" is a continuation of action's favourite cowboy hero and his adventures as a fearless rider of the range in the days of the old west.

William Boyd is again seen in the role of "Hopalong," the same character he created in the first of the series, a fearless, admirable cowboy, quick on the trigger, straight shooting, hard riding hero or Mulford's books who comes to life on the screen. In "Eagle's Brood" he is cast as a peace officer whose duty is to bring law and order to the lawless border town of Hell Center.

A thrilling, fast moving, finale, with plenty of gun play makes for an exciting finish. An able cast supports the two principals, including George Hayes, Dorothy Revier, George Mar, Howard Bretherton, whose direction distinguished the first Hopalong western, did as fine a directorial job on the second Mulford film.

MAGNIFICENT BRUTE

A tremendous man attracts the admiring glances of most women. That is the case with Big Steve Andrews who is a fool for blondes in assorted sizes and wholesale lots. He is a whale of a fellow with enormous appetites. Big Steve, "The Magnificent Brute," is maker of steel, accustomed to the roar and glow and showering sparks of the flaming molten metal. But not accustomed to the wiles of women. Victor McLaglen portrays the character of Steve, starring in Universal's "The Magnificent Brute" which has its run at the Alhambra Theatre, to-day.

Binnie Barnes, is seen as the ravishing blonde who keeps the "Magnificent Brute" in a state of feverishly excited infatuation. Jean Dixon, the widow who wants the "Magnificent Brute," for herself, is remembered for her excellent work in "My Man Godfrey."

William Hall, the towering menace who battles "The Magnificent Brute" at every turn, has been featured in musical comedy and over the radio.

Henry Arnette, comedian of established popularity, is seen as an ally of "The Magnificent Brute," who encourages him in his struggles with his enemy and in his escapades with the blonde captivators.

Young Billy Burrud encores his friendship for a "Magnificent Brute" with a glow of youthful hero worship.

BARRING THE CANAL

One more vestige of the Versailles Treaty is swept away by the decision of the German Government to close the Kiel Canal to foreign warships, unless permission for them to pass through the Canal has been obtained through diplomatic channels.

Article 380 of the Treaty declares that the Canal and its approaches shall be kept "free and open" to "all vessels of commerce and of war" belonging to nations at peace with Germany.

The clauses relating to the canal were not specifically repudiated when the German Government announced last March that it would no longer recognise international control over German waterways, but it has always been assumed in London that this repudiation did, in fact, include the Kiel Canal clauses.

The position is now that the German Government, having claimed the right to control passage through the canal last March, is now making use of the right for the first time. The decision does not mark any new departure in principle.

The closing of the canal is not expected to cause any inconvenience to British naval vessels.

NEEDED MORE CASH

Witness: I needed some cash to carry on the business of the compradore department and it was owing to the strike that I had to make advances to the workmen in the refinery, until I got payments from the general manager which was put back a month. At that time I had been running the compradore department for 16 years. I had to raise the money because of heavy expenses during the strike. I needed more liquid cash than before. I was reimbursed by Messrs. Jardines.

Mr. Prentis: Were you indulging in speculation at that time?

Witness: No.

Mr. Prentis: The China Sugar Refinery went into liquidation in 1927, did it not?

Witness: Yes.

Mr. Prentis: At that time what was approximately the value of your assets?

Witness: Between $150,000 and $200,000.

Mr. Prentis: On going through your pass books from 1924 to 1927, I find very large payments in and payments out. What would the majority of these be?

Witness: I used the money to buy investment shares and selling them afterwards.

Mr. Prentis: You held quite a number of shares at that time?

Witness: I had some shares.

Mr. Prentis: In 1928 you became compradore of the French Bank?

Witness: Yes.

How much security did you put up?—$150,000.

Did you put it up yourself?—Partly. I put up $25,000 cash and $125,000 in property belonging to my parents and uncle. I continued to make profit.

Mr. Prentis: In September, 1931, your credit balance at the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank was $193,934?—Yes.

And your credit at the French Bank was $23,299?—Yes.

Mr. Prentis: That was part of the $25,000 you had deposited with the French Bank?—Yes.

Mr. Prentis: Apart from these cash assets what was approximately your share holding at that time?

Witness: I had some shares. I cannot remember exactly.

Mr. Prentis: Can you give any idea of their value?

Witness: I cannot remember.

WITHDREW ALL CREDIT

Mr. Prentis: Apart from the property I have previously mentioned, did you have any real estate or household property in the Colony?—No.

From your pass books some time in September, 1931, you closed both accounts and withdrew all your credit?—Yes.

Can you account for that withdrawal?

Witness: I withdrew the money because of heavy deficits incurred from outstanding contracts in buying for which I was held responsible by the Bank.

Mr. Prentis: You mean that certain customers of the Bank defaulted and you as compradore who had introduced them was held liable for them. What was the reason for their defaulting?

Witness: It occurred when England went off the gold standard round about that time.

Mr. Prentis: How did the effect of England going off the gold standard affect your clients? Did they have contracts with England?—Yes. The rates fluctuated.

Mr. Prentis: You paid into the Bank to meet these liabilities, $300,000 to $400,000?—Yes.

Mr. Prentis: Was your security also taken?—Yes.

Mr. Prentis: Apart from these payments in you still had liabilities at the Bank of $500,000?—Yes.

Mr. Prentis: When England went off the gold standard and you found the world's exchange fluctuating did you not realise that your clients would default?

NO PERMISSION TO ACT

Witness: I was not allowed to act independently. I could not make any effort to cover myself without the permission of the manager of the Bank. I did ask the manager to do so but he advised me that he would look after it to the best of his ability and I left it at that.

Mr. Prentis: You could have bought exchange outside the Bank?—I could not without the permission of the manager.

Mr. Prentis: But you must have realised that with the dollar falling at that time, with these contracts due, that your liabilities were getting greater and greater.

Witness: I did realise that but I was under the impression that the Bank manager was looking after the contracts for me. The Bank manager verbally informed me that once he had got the position straightened out he might grant further facilities for me to recuperate. Unfortunately, the manager was called back to the head office and a new man came out to take his place.

Mr. Prentis: It would take a very long time to recuperate $1,000,000.

Replying to further questions, witness replied: In the autumn of 1931 all my assets were wiped out and I found myself liable for $500,000. In fact, I still owe the French Bank that sum but they have now agreed to waive it. I continued as compradore of the French Bank until 1933.

Mr. Prentis: Did you manage to get back any of your losses?

RESIGNED POSITION

Witness: To a small extent but that was paid in against my deficit account in the Bank. The profit earned by me went into the Bank to cover my previous losses. I resigned in 1933. I was then in bad health caused by the heavy losses I suffered.

"In 1933 I became associated with the China Corporation Limited," continued the witness. "I had some shares started in 1929 or 1930. The shares were valued at more than $100,000 which I invested with them. When the firm went into liquidation the shares were of no value at that time and I did not use them to clear my liabilities. The China Corporation has since been finally wound up. The share creditors received nothing."

Witness told the Court of his association with the Canton Sugar Monopoly to which he contributed one share about 1930 which was in the figure of about $2,500 Canton money, a little over $1,000 Hong Kong currency.

Mr. Prentis: Did you receive any profit from them?

Witness: There were some profits I was told but I never received them.

Mr. Prentis: The Monopoly has since been cancelled?

Witness: Yes.

Mr. Prentis: Do you know the Ning Hing Bank?

Witness: Yes, a partner. I put up capital of $20,000.

Mr. Prentis: When did that come into existence?

Witness: Some time in 1933.

Mr. Prentis: It was not really a bank; it was more in the nature of an exchange brokerage, was it not?

Witness: The Chinese call that a bank.

Witness added that he managed to make a profit but the business was closed in 1935 or the beginning of 1936. There were three partners.

Mr. Prentis: Where are the books?

Witness: The man who took charge of the business took the books away and I have no idea where the books of that business are.

Mr. Prentis: How much profit did you make between 1933 and 1935 on that transaction?

Witness: Four or five thousand dollars.

Mr. Prentis: Did you get your $20,000 back again?—No.

Witness: I was also a partner in the Kwan Yuen Bank. It was under the same management as the Ning Hing Bank. The same remarks apply to the books of the Kwan Yuen Bank.

Witness stated that apart from debts owing to Chinese people before, 1931, he had incurred all other debts since then.

Witness raised $40,000 from Mr. Tang Shui Kin in 1932.

TO KEEP BANK QUIET

Explaining why he did so, witness said: The Bank was asking me for further payments. I had to borrow from Mr. Tang Shui Kin to keep the Bank quiet. At that time I was still employed as compradore.

Mr. Prentis: At that time the Bank must have known your financial position?

Witness: The Bank did not know. They asked me for payments and I had to borrow. Most part of the $40,000 I borrowed from Mr. Tang Shui Kin went to the Bank. I was paying interest on my liabilities in the Bank. I cannot remember when I ceased to pay it. The Bank must have a record.

Mr. Prentis: Apart from the debt due to Miss Morrison all the other sums are money lent are they not?

Witness: I agreed that they were sums of $13,000, $9,000, $8,000 and $2,500 loaned by four Chinese people, respectively, and $2,000 by an Indian. They were borrowed at various times right up to 1933. "My reason for continued borrowing," said witness, "was that I had to meet interest on payment one to the other and I needed some money for my own expenses and family."

Mr. Prentis: Up to 1933 you were receiving money from your duty as compradore of the French Bank and $4,000 to $5,000 from the Ning Hing Bank. Did you have any other sources of income?

Witness: No. I borrowed money to repay previous liabilities.

Witness added that he had 200 shares in the Tramway Company which he mortgaged and applied the money to the same purpose as the money which he had borrowed from Mr. Tang Shui Kin.

BROADWOOD ROAD RESIDENCE

Regarding his residence at No. 5, Broadwood Road, witness said that the rent was $350 per month. The expenses for running the house were a little under $1,000 a month.

Mr. Prentis: Considering your financial position were you not living far above your means?

Witness replied that he did economise himself. His eldest son was actually supporting the family and they could manage to carry on. The income his eldest son earned went towards the expenses of the family.

Mr. Prentis: Do you mean that he pays part of the household expenses?

Witness: Yes.

Mr. Prentis: How did the debt to Miss Morrison come to be contracted?

Witness: Certain shares were handed over to me and it was arranged that I had authority to make use of them at my discretion subject to paying certain interest to her regularly. Since then she began to draw on me regularly every month and I had to disburse and to pay a number of accounts for her every month. The shares were a loan.

Replying further, witness said: The authority given me was that I could sell them or pledge them or realise money on them in any way I saw fit. I did sell them. I used the money in different ways.

His Lordship (interposing): For whose benefit?

Witness: For hers and for mine.

Mr. Prentis: How do you mean for her benefit?

Witness: I had to invest them in order to pay interest to her. I invested $20,000 in the Ning Hing Bank. I did not give Miss Morrison any security for money loaned to me.

Witness continued that he had furniture in his house on which there was a bill of sale.

Mr. Prentis: How did that bill of sale come to be given?

Witness: I borrowed this money in the hope that I might compromise Miss Morrison's claim.

Mr. Prentis: What has happened to that money?

Witness: It was paid as part of my assets. All assets received have been put up by relatives.

LARGE FAMILY

Mr. Prentis: At the present time you have no leasehold property, no shares and no cash other than that deposited with me?—Yes. I have no other assets in China.

Mr. Prentis: Are you married?

Witness: Yes. I have 11 children and their ages vary from 13 to 30. Four of them are earning money. My eldest son supports the family at the moment. My wife has no property. I have no other assets at all apart from those disclosed to you.

His Lordship: As far as I can make out you have been hopelessly insolvent for the last six years. Is that so?

Witness mumbled something and then added that his salary at the French Bank was $700 a month and the Ning Hing Bank produced about $200 a month.

His Lordship: How did you imagine you were justified in paying $350 rent a month and $1,000 to run the house?

Witness: The children contributed towards the running expenses. They earn about $400.

His Lordship: Why did you not give that house up years ago?

Witness: I did think of moving. There was a time when I was paying more than $350.

His Lordship: For the last five years you had been living at a very extravagant rate with money borrowed from friends and from others and on the profits of sale of shares which were never yours. Is not that so?

Witness: Yes.

EXPECTED MONEY

His Lordship: What explanation for conduct like that have you to offer?

Witness replied that he had expected some money from his holdings at the China Corporation which was wound up last year. He admitted that the shares of the Corporation were never quoted.

His Lordship: Have you any explanation of your extravagance to offer? None at all?

Witness: Personally, I do not think I have been extravagant.

His Lordship: You were paying, on your own showing, $1,250 a month for your clothing, feeding and house. You were not earning that. Is that not extravagant?

Witness: Yes.

His Lordship: Did you not think it was better for your family, earning $400 monthly, that they should live in a smaller house on a less ambitious scale?

Witness: Yes, but I could not make them see my point.

His Lordship: I understand that the father of a Chinese family always dictates the policy of the family and not the other way round.

MISS MORRISON'S QUESTIONS

At this stage, Miss E. Morrison, who was dressed in black and wearing a smart black fur cape, came forward. She was one of the main creditors and in reply to his Lordship said that she would like to ask a few questions.

Miss Morrison: I would like to ask why in 1934, Mr. Choa telephoned me and asked me if I had sold my bonds and said that owing to the fall in gold I would be well advised to hand over my shares and bonds to him to sell and I would receive seven per cent. interest. At that time Mr. Choa stated that he was still compradore at the French Bank.

His Lordship, turning to the witness, said that it was his duty to warn him that in the face of the serious allegations made by Miss Morrison, the witness was not liable to answer any questions which might incriminate him. The witness was at liberty to say that he declined to answer.

Witness: I decline to answer.

Witness added that in 1934 when he obtained the shares and bonds from Miss Morrison he was no longer compradore at the French Bank. Witness denied that he advised Miss Morrison over the telephone that she would be well advised to sell them.

Miss Morrison: I would not have had any inclination to give my shares. I have a book here to prove the day when I handed over the shares and bonds. Mr. Choa also gave me two telephone numbers.

Witness admitted that he gave two telephone numbers, adding that these were the numbers of the Ning Hing Bank and the Kwan Yuen Bank.

NO RECEIPT FOR SHARES

Miss Morrison: He gave me no receipt for my shares.

His Lordship (to witness): You have no evidence in writing about this arrangement between Miss Morrison and yourself; you were allowed to sell as you liked. The net result is that there is judgment against you for $29,000. Can you suggest how anyone should be foolish enough to be a party to an agreement such as you suggest? Miss Morrison's suggestion is a simple one. You, she says, pretended to her that you were compradore of the French Bank, pretended that she would be well advised to take your advice to dispose of her bonds and script for seven per cent. and, believing that, she gave you valuable shares. Your reply is that 'we had a friendly understanding', is that correct?

Witness: I intended to make the money for her.

His Lordship: Did you not regard it as a trust account?—I did realise it.

His Lordship: Did you keep a separate trust account?—No.

His Lordship: You mixed it up with your own money or lack of money, did you?—Yes.

His Lordship: And some of the money, you have told us, you used for your own purpose?—Yes.

His Lordship: Another friendly understanding or other great expectation?

His Lordship: Am I right in saying that when the writ was issued against yourself, you entered your appearance and instituted leave to defend the action?—Yes.

Miss Morrison remarked that the agreement between witness and herself was on a seven per cent. basis and that the condition was that witness would return her money on three months' notice. A year ago, in February, Miss Morrison went to Manila and on her return told Choa that she wanted her money in the summer as she wished to go home. She asked for her money in June.

This was denied by witness. Miss Morrison stated she did approach Choa in June.

His Lordship: And as a trustee you failed to return it?

Witness: I have, in fact, not repaid that trust account.

NO GUARANTOR

Miss Morrison: His last statement about my not asking him in June is untrue, because the night I asked him for my money he said it would be impossible for him to give me my money owing to unforeseen circumstances. He said that if I pressed him for this money, I would get nothing, and that there was nothing to prevent him from saying that he lost the money. I did not take action. It took from June to September, 1935, to audit the account. I waited in the hope that there would be some fair offer. His first offer was $5,000 in monthly instalments. I would have agreed to that provided he could get a guarantor for $350 a month.

His Lordship: Is that so?—No. Following further remarks by Miss Morrison, his Lordship said: You are doubtless aware there is a remedy open to you in another Court on the facts you have just stated—criminal prosecution of this man. At the moment I am concerned solely with the public examination of this man.

Miss Morrison: I have not had the opportunity to put all the facts before the Court. I do not know much about law. I have approached the police and they have told me it was not a criminal case but a civil case. Surely, though, if a man gets money under false pretences there must be something or some way to get the money back.

His Lordship: I cannot advise you from the Bench. You solicitors can advise you.

Miss Morrison: I can see that his threat will be carried out in full. He said that if I pressed him I would get nothing.

Mr. Prentis: In view of your Lordship's last remarks, if there is a possibility of criminal proceedings, it would be advisable to keep open this public examination until the next session of the Bankruptcy Court; otherwise I have no objection.

His Lordship: I don't think it is a proper case to be closed. (Addressing witness): I shall adjourn your public examination until the next session of the Bankruptcy Court when you will appear here to be further examined.

Charities Day Hoax

"A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR"

Charities Day in Glasgow and the customary preliminaries are regarded by the citizens with at least a kindly tolerance which sometimes swells into personal pride in the students' achievements when these are of special distinction. In particular the annual hoax is awaited, appraised, and condemned or condoned according to individual taste. The exploits of Miss Anne D'Appenny, the Atlantic swimmer, and the arrival of "Big Bull" Thomson were hoaxes in the grand manner—the better hoaxes, too, because they deceived some and offended none. This year, however, the students have been less successful. The hoax was launched with too much solemnity, and accordingly founded.

In design this year's hoax followed tradition in that it involved a visit to Glasgow on the eve of Charities Day by "a distinguished visitor," no less a personage than the Professor of Medicine from the University of Lima, with the high-sounding name of C. R. van Druyten. So far so good, although the name afforded no clue; but when it was added that the professor was to address a meeting of the University Medical-Chirurgical Society on the treatment of influenza and that the public were to be admitted to the lecture free of charge the jest began to lose much of its inspiration. Influenza is too much to be ready material for student hoaxes, and although the "professor's" sponsors were satisfied with the advance publicity they have secured, they forfeited some of the admiration which is usually accorded on such occasions.

ENGLISH FILM STUDIO
FOR U.S. COMPANY

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, probably the largest American film company, is to start production on a large scale in England.

This announcement was made recently at a luncheon at the Savoy Hotel, given by Mr. Sam Eckman, of M-G-M.

The chief producer of the new company is to be Mr. Michael Balcon, whom Gaumont-British have consented to release as from January 1, 1937.

Among the films he will make for the new company, which is to be officially named M-G-M. British Studios, Ltd., are "The Wind and the Rain" and "Yank at Oxford." All the company's films are to be produced entirely for world release.

This means that they will be designed to have an appeal in all countries, and that large sums of money will be spent in obtaining the finest "stars" and technicians for them, as well as the best stories and plays. Four to five films will be made in the first year, and afterwards the number will be increased.

Mr. Balcon's contract, which will bind him for a long period, sets out that he shall go to Hollywood to make an occasional film for the American branch of the company.

Colonial Equality

In the German peace plan of March, 1936, Herr Hitler for the first time claimed "equality of rights in the colonial sphere" for the German nation. Since then "colonial equality" has become a catch-word in all discussions on the colonial problem, though a moment's thought will reveal the fact that the phrase is almost meaningless.

In a small pamphlet published as a supplement to the "Journal of the Royal African Society," M. Pierre Orts, the vice-chairman of the Mandates Commission of the League, reveals that it was Herr von Papen who first coined the phrase as long ago as July, 1932. But equality with whom? Equality with Belgium would not be equality with Britain, and it is obvious that measured in terms of acres colonial equality could never be reached. M. Orts seems to think that the Germans still hold the view expressed by Herr von Jagow in 1914 that only the Great Powers have a right to colonies.

Naturally M. Orts, speaking as a Belgian, rejects this definition, but his own opinion seems hardly less naive. He admits that colonies can be very useful, but protests that countries have no "natural right" to the same advantages.

In his view some countries (like Belgium) are designed by fate to have colonies and other countries (like Germany) are designed by fate not to have colonies. "They are all," he says, "as nature made them."

Exactly the same argument might be used by the heir to a fortune in order to justify his keeping it; some men are rich, others are poor, and that is the end of it. But just as we are beginning to recognise that no man has a natural right to riches, so we shall soon realise that no nation has a natural right to colonies.

True "colonial equality" can only mean equality of opportunity for every nation alike—an equality that is incompatible with national sovereignty over great empires.

Mr. Duff Cooper said that he was convinced that the voluntary system fulfilled all the requirements of Britain in normal times. Contrasting the improvement in recruiting in the Territorial Army with the lack of improvement in the Regular Army, the Minister for War pointed out that no particular steps had been taken at present to encourage recruiting.

THE TERRITORIAL ARMY
"I hope shortly," he added, "to be able to make an announcement of improved conditions in the Regular Army, and I hope and believe that the result of those improvements will be as satisfactory as the result has been of the improvement in the Territorial Army. There is no cause or reason to feel any sentiment of despair. There is every reason, on the contrary, to feel full of hope."

Mr. Duff Cooper stated that the result of the improvement of conditions in the Territorial Army had been as good as anybody could have hoped. In the first month after the changes were announced recruiting went up 60 per cent, and last month it increased 120 per cent compared with December, 1935. They had still, however, a long way to go, because while recruits had been coming in they had been compelled to increase establishments, and they had created two new anti-aircraft divisions. In this respect they had to find more than 100 new headquarters and drill halls. The programme was advancing with as great rapidity as they could fairly expect and he had little doubt that, given time, they would succeed in bringing this large, increased Territorial Army up to full establishment.

Abbey Gold Staff
Officers

RELATIVES OF PEERS

Those who will act as ushers or, to give them their correct title, "Gold Staff Officers" at the Coronation have received their invitations to serve.

Gold Staff Officers are selected personally by the Duke of Norfolk as Earl Marshal from retired officers or relatives of peers. There will be about 300 on duty in the Abbey on May 12.

The invitation begins:

Sir—

I have selected you to act, if you are willing to do so, as a Gold Staff Officer.

The office which will consist of showing guests to their seats will be no sinecure.

The Duke of Norfolk points out that the duties of the appointment would involve your presence from 5.30 a.m. until the late afternoon. You would also be expected to attend several rehearsals in March and April.

The Gold Staff Officers will wear full uniform or Court dress, with a badge of office on the left arm.

This badge, and also the staff, which is of wood painted red and gold and bearing the Royal monogram and Crown, they will be able to retain as mementos.

NO CONSCRIPTION
IN PEACE TIMEMr. Duff Cooper And Recruiting

Mr. Duff Cooper, Secretary of State for War, speaking at a luncheon given at the Constitutional Club recently by the Mayor of Wardsworth (Mr. W. H. Heath), denied that he was thinking of introducing conscription, and said that he hoped shortly to make an announcement concerning improved conditions in the Regular Army. The Mayor of Wardsworth presided.

"I have read statements that conscription is about to be introduced," said Mr. Duff Cooper, "that the military advisers of the Government were holding a pistol to the head of the Government and were threatening all kinds of measures if we do not introduce conscription at once. I have also read a suggestion that I myself have been threatening the country with conscription as the alternative to the voluntary system."

"I have said that if recruiting to the Regular Army does not improve the system will break down. I believe it will improve, but the alternative is not necessarily conscription. I have never suggested it was, and people who talk lightly of conscription for the Regular Army have never given full consideration to the problem. It would not solve our problem at all. We do not want a vast Regular Army for home service such as exist on the Continent—we want a small Regular Army for foreign service."

"We do not want a vast, trained army of men for home defence. We want a small, specialized, highly trained army for Imperial defence, and that conscription would never give us. I have never contemplated conscription in peace time as a possibility. At the same time if war were to come again, if we were once more plunged into such a fearful catastrophe as another European war, there is little doubt that conscription would come, as it did in the last War. There is also little doubt that everything would move much more rapidly than it did in the last War: the tanks would move rapidly, and so would the minds of statesmen. Whatever happened would come sooner, and conscription would come sooner."

Mr. Duff Cooper said that he was convinced that the voluntary system fulfilled all the requirements of Britain in normal times. Contrasting the improvement in recruiting in the Territorial Army with the lack of improvement in the Regular Army, the Minister for War pointed out that no particular steps had been taken at present to encourage recruiting.

If Gossip We Must

A recent camera study of Mrs. F. F. Clarke of Kowloon. (Rialto Studio).

(BY PRUDENCE)

In these hectic days of radio, jazz, and cinema, it is nice to see that the real music-lovers of Hong Kong still rally round the excellent concerts given at the Helena May Institute during the winter season.

I dropped in there last Friday to hear the delightful programme arranged by Mrs. Dick Sanger, and found a lot of well-known people had the same idea. I was particularly struck by the number of men who were present, and as the programme was a classical one it shows that the Stronger Sex is not alone in appreciating good music.

Mrs. Alabaster has always been a firm supporter of these concerts and she arrived early with Mrs. Cock (who was looking very smart in a most attractive shade of plum, with a close-fitting hat to match). Mrs. Lambert wore an attractive suit of dark violet; she is only just back from home leave, and was looking splendid in consequence.

Others I noticed were Mrs. Brough in a pretty gray suit and cute little hat to match, Mrs. Girondal with a lovely cape of fur, and Mrs. Lockhart who passed me just as the lights went down.

YOLA AND PAUL

We stepped out last Saturday night, and "went on the tiles" to join in the welcome given to those two superb dancers Yola and Paul. It is more than a year since last they were here but Hong Kong has not forgotten them, and there was a big crowd in the Roof-Garden that night. Mr. Gifford Hull had many pretty people at his big table for twelve. Mr. and Mrs. Emmert had a gay American party not far away and it was lovely to see among her guests Mr. Fred Tracy, just back from his holiday in the U.S.A. and looking fine. Mrs. Emmert was most distinguished in a shimmering dress of wheat-coloured satin which suited her marvelously. Mrs. Chan was there with another party, very smart in black with crossed shoulder straps of silver.

Round about eleven o'clock people began to be rather impatient for Yola and Paul to appear, and there was a round of applause when at last they floated in to delight us with their dancing. Yola is an exquisite artiste, with a magnetic personality and Paul is a gallant and dashing partner. Their Rumba was definitely "a thrill," and rapturously encored.

PRETTY JAPANESE LADIES

Mrs. Van Wyck looked quite enchanting in palest blue satin, and Mrs. Turnbull was delightful in black net. Minna Whitham went floating past in an elusive shade of mulberry. Two very charming little Japanese ladies were obviously enjoying the evening and danced every dance, looking like dainty butterflies in their dark kimonos and flowing sleeves, not easy to dance English dances in "geta." I should think, yet they managed it with the greatest possible grace.

Mrs. Simmons looked most beautiful in black with silver sequins. Mr. Krogh Moe had a party and so had Major Moffatt. Mr. Kadourie had a lovely little partner in pale blue whose name I do not know, though it is only a few short years since I remember her as a pretty little school girl going off with her books in the early mornings.

Rosalie Alabaster looked awfully sweet in peach satin, sashed with black, Joan Baker was extremely "easy to look at" in dark red chiffon, Diana Dodwell quite angelic in purest white, and Barbara Hance wonderful in ruby velvet.

Mrs. Feltham looked fascinating in yellow, and came up with a gay crowd just in time for the last cabaret turn. We, alas, had to miss that owing to the lateness of the hour. It is all right in Shanghai to "beat it up" till two o'clock in the morning. For there everyone lives on the same level and there are no transport difficulties to surmount when the time comes to go home. But here in Hong Kong it is a different matter, and TIME (the Peak Tram) and TIDE (the last ferry) wait for no man, and some of us must be on the spot at Fanling at cockcrow, or miss our turn on the first tee.

"DEAD START" SUGGESTED
FOR SWIMMERSAnomalies Of 50 Years May End Soon

(BY W. J. HOWCROFT)

It will be interesting to hear how the official and the active sides of swimming react when the proposal to alter the A.S.A. rules regarding starting is discussed at the District Council meetings shortly.

The existing rule is that there is a preparatory warning of "get ready" given before the starting word, "go." Now the A.S.A. Committee are submitting a proposal to the A.S.A. Council meeting at Harrogate in March, to delete the present rule, which has stood on the books for over 50 years, and substitute the starting procedure adopted by the International Swimming Federation at their meeting at Berlin last August. The new rule reads:

"The starter shall use the preparatory command, and there shall follow a sufficient length of time before the signal to start is given. The competitors shall remain stationary until the actual signal (shot, whistle, or starting word) is given."

This "dead start" has had a long test in the U.S.A. The idea originated from the Yale coach, Bob Kipphut. Fifteen years ago I heard him argue that the warning "get ready" allowed a man to be in motion before the actual start, and that he could not be disqualified providing his feet were in contact with the edge of the bath.

EFFECT ON RECORD BIDS

Kipphut claimed that hardly an important race was decided without one, or more, competitors being actually in flight before the starting word. But his strongest objection was that nearly every man making a solo attempt on record was actually in motion before the timekeepers' watches were started.

He first persuaded the U.S.A. Inter-Collegiate Swimming Association to adopt the flat start. Later the American Amateur Athletic Union passed the rule, and finally Kipphut's idea has been accepted by the International Federation.

I can see no valid objection to the new rule. But I can visualise the "old brigade" in this country protesting at the suggestion that a rule which has been in the A.S.A. books for half a century should be replaced by a method which has its origin in another country.

COMPETITORS PLEASED

Competitors, I know, will welcome the new rule, as they will know exactly what to expect, whereas under the old rule there was a variable pause between the words "get ready" and "go." In other words, there will be no preparatory warning. All that the competitors will receive is an instruction to take up their position on the starting board.

Denmark's schoolgirl prodigy, and the youngest competitor in the Olympic swimming events at Berlin, Inge Sorensen, established her first, international record when she swam 400 metres breast stroke in 6 min. 28.1-10 sec., in a 25 metres bath at Copenhagen recently; this just beat Martha Genenger's European record of 6 min. 28.3-10 sec., but failed to touch the world's record of 6 min. 24.8-10 sec., held by the Olympic champion, Hidoko Mayehata.

Relatively allowing for age and stroke, Sorensen is the fastest swimmer of either sex in the world. There is some doubt as to whether she is 12 or 13 years of age. When she left the water after taking third place to Hidoko Mayehata, and Martha Genenger in the Olympic 200 metres final at Berlin, she received a much bigger ovation than the winner.

FLOODLIT LONDON
Impressive Plans For Broadcasting House

The B.B.C. announces that Broadcasting House will be floodlit during Coronation week. The upper storeys of the building, with the aerials and masts, will be lighted by powerful flood lamps, while the frontage will be illuminated to suggest greater width. This will be supplemented by floral decorations in vivid red, white and blue.

Plans have been made for floodlighting the big buildings on the Thames Embankment. These include Shell-Mex House, Unilever House, and the premises of Imperial Chemical Industries.

Carlton House-terrace, including the German Embassy, is to be decorated on a uniform plan, but the question of floodlighting has not yet been decided.

The Regent Street Association has also evolved a uniform scheme of decoration for the Quadrant. A single flower motif will run the entire length of the street. It has been impossible, however, to arrive at a satisfactory unified lighting system, and this has been left to individual firms.

Messrs. Lyons will floodlight a number of their hotels and Corner Houses, including the Cumberland Hotel and the Trocadero. The Ritz Hotel is also considering several proposed floodlighting schemes.

ARTIFICIAL DAYLIGHT
IN ABBEY

Lighting For Service

Special arrangements have been made by the Office of Works for the lighting of Westminster Abbey during the Coronation service.

Alterations at the Abbey for the service will cause natural daylight to be excluded, but the Office of Works has arranged with the London Associated Electrical Undertakings to overcome this difficulty. Steps are being taken to enable the service to be held under conditions comparable to those of natural daylight.

Current capable of providing at least 200,000 candle-power is being provided free of charge as a contribution to the Coronation ceremonies.

VACATION INTERRUPTED

Berlin, Feb. 6.

Contrary to all former reports the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, will interrupt his vacation journey to the Riviera to visit the French Foreign Minister, M. Delbos, in Paris, declares the Paris correspondent to the "Berliner Tageblatt." In order to discuss with him the difficulties which have arisen in connection with the carrying out of control of Spanish frontiers.

The main difficulty arises from the fact that the Soviet Union has demanded to be permitted to participate in the activities and that France supports the Soviet demands, declaring that she has the same rights as Germany to send warships to patrol the Spanish coast.

COMPLETE FREEDOM

The second difficulty was occasioned by the Soviet note in which insistence is made on complete freedom of supervision of the entire coast by all ships without special zones being established for various powers. The acceptance of this proposal would mean that Soviet warships would participate with those of other nations in the common task for the first time.

It is pointed out that such a system of control would provide unlimited possibilities for international complications.

Finally considerable uncertainty exists in British circles as to whether Germany, Italy, and especially Portugal, will agree to the entire plan.—Transocean News Service.

MR. EDEN LEAVES ON HOLIDAY

Fortnight's Rest And Recreation

London, Feb. 6.

Mr. Anthony Eden, accompanied by his wife, left London this morning for a fortnight's holiday in the South of France. The Foreign Secretary, in whose absence Lord Halifax will be in charge at the Foreign Office, is not staying in Paris on his way to the Riviera and no arrangements have been made for him to meet the French statesmen.

Mr. Eden has only had one short holiday since he became Foreign Secretary and has therefore taken the opportunity of what appears likely to be a dull period in international affairs to secure a fortnight's rest and recreation.

Apart from the developments in the international situation in the next few months, the Coronation programme and the meeting of the Imperial Conference promise Ministers a strenuous time and visits of foreign representatives in large numbers will impose a specially heavy strain on the Foreign Secretary.—British Wireless.

NEW AIR ROUTE TO AUSTRALIA

Flying Boat Returns After Take-Off

London, Feb. 6.

The inauguration of the flight over the new air route of the British Imperial Airways to Australia was unsuccessful here, the giant flying boat having to return five minutes after the take-off because of faulty ignition. A new start will be made on Sunday morning at 7 o'clock.

It is hoped that in spite of the delay the plane will arrive in Melbourne on time in order to complete the journey according to schedule.—Transocean News Service.

CONTROL PLAN IN SPANISH WATERS

Soviet Russia Wants Share In Fleet Patrol

London, Feb. 5.

The Soviet Union demands that the planned control plan in Spanish waters be absolutely impartial, and that the Soviet Fleet be also partner to the controlling powers. It is moreover stated that Lord Plymouth, Chairman of the Non-Intervention Committee, was presented on Friday with a note of protest from the Soviet Government at the proposal that the Spanish coast be divided up into zones, each of which would be patrolled by the fleet of a different country. It is also stated that should Soviet Russia not be allowed to participate in the patrolling, France will insist that Germany be also left out, as France is particularly interested in not having it appear as though the Four Power Pact countries were doing the patrolling alone.—Transocean News Service.

Manila, Feb. 6.

A gathering of 125,000 men participating in the open air midnight mass at Luneta Park was a feature of the men's day at the international Eucharistic Congress. Delhi Durbar

Expectations

London, Feb. 6.

Some have been optimistic enough to count upon a durbar in India this year, says an editorial in the "Times" to-day, but lately this expectation has been fading.

The paper emphasises the immense strain falling on the King with a stream of audiences, sittings, discussions and decisions, owing to the Coronation being only five months after His Majesty's accession.

Since his return from Sandringham the King has worked without remission, and the prospect of any real break is remote.

Any addition to the year's engagements ought to be very carefully considered and, on reflection, it is made clear that the accession, Coronation and Durbar cannot be brought into the compass of a single year.

His Majesty, the article concludes, ought not to be asked to exceed precedent in this respect.—Reuter.

Coronation Medal Designs Approved

London, Feb. 6.

The Royal Mint announces that the King and Queen have given their approval to designs for Coronation medals which have been executed by Mr. Langford Jones and Mr. Percy Metcalfe to whom Their Majesties have given sittings.

Mr. Metcalfe's design, with the King's head on one side and the Queen's on the reverse will be struck by the Mint as official Coronation medals, while Mr. Jones, in which portraits of the King and Queen are boldly delineated, are incorporated, will be available for the obverse of medals issued by public bodies.—British Wireless.

NEW ENGAGEMENTS FOR KING

London, Feb. 6.

The King and Queen are passing the week-end at the Royal Lodge, Windsor. Two additions to Their Majesties' forthcoming engagements are announced. One June 29 the King accompanied by the Queen will open a new gallery devoted to sculpture at Tate Gallery in London. On May 7, the Friday before the Coronation, His Majesty will be present at a luncheon in Westminster Hall to be given by the Empire Parliamentary Association.—British Wireless.

Duke Of Windsor's Marriage

London, Feb. 6.

The Duke of Windsor will marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson in April, says the "Daily Express."

In making the announcement, the paper reports that both the Duke of Kent have received invitations from their exiled brother to attend the wedding, which will take place at Ennsfeld Castle, where the Duke is now staying.

Reports that the Duke of Windsor will return to England in July to attend the Garter ceremonies at Windsor Castle, have not been substantiated in semi-official quarters.—Transocean News Service.

GERMAN CLAIM FOR COLONIES

Ribbentrop To Raise Question

London, Feb. 5.

The question of a return to Germany of her former colonies will be raised in concrete form shortly by the German Ambassador, Baron von Ribbentrop, according to information from authoritative political circles here. In all probability the first conversations will take place next week between Ribbentrop and Lord Halifax, who is representing Eden while the latter is on leave. It is stated that the first aim of Ribbentrop will be to induce England to recognise Germany's claim in principle, and this, so it is stated, would be only the natural sequel to Hitler's Reichstag speech. Ribbentrop has received exact instructions as to how the negotiations must be handled, but up till now no memorandum for the information of the Foreign Office has been handed in.

It is not expected that for the time being the German claims will refer to any specific territory, but will as hitherto be confined to generalities. Considerable emphasis has been laid in public allusions to the German colonial claims here to the impossibility of the colonial question being treated apart from the entire complex of questions now awaiting solution in Europe. It is therefore significant that the German Ambassador has just returned and brought new instructions for the discussion of a new Locarno pact. Moreover it is recalled that just before Christmas Ribbentrop, in a conversation with Eden, had stated that the Franco-Soviet Pact is the chief reason for the tension, and that this pact has to be brought into harmony with the method of determining the aggressor in any new Locarno Pact.—Transocean News Service.

Germany To Break With Basle Bank

Separate Arrangements With Creditors

Geneva, Feb. 6.

It is believed that Dr. Schacht to-morrow will announce Germany's withdrawal from the Bank of International Settlements and offer to make separate arrangements with the bank's creditors including those under the Dawes and Young Plans. This would dispose of the German disadvantage being opposed by a united single front.

Germany's withdrawal from the Bank of International Settlements does not necessarily involve discontinuance of the institution which was formed in 1930 with a capital of five hundred million Swiss gold francs.—Reuter.

Roosevelt's Sweep Of Law Courts

Proposals Denounced As Dictatorship

New York, Feb. 6.

Pres. Roosevelt's proposals for a sweeping reorganisation of the Federal Court machinery has aroused a depth of feeling in the political arena, where the Conservatives, who have been relying on the Supreme Court to save business from what they regard as the excesses of New Deal interference, denounce the proposals as a dictatorship.

Even in the Democratic Party itself support is by no means unanimous or altogether enthusiastic.

The more Conservative newspapers are bitterly attacking the President's unexpected action. The "New York Times" warns Congress to be on its guard against political sharp practice.

The President's proposals provide among other things for increase of judgeships in the Supreme Court and lower courts, and injection of younger blood of his own choosing.—Reuter.

The airmail carried by the Imperial Airways during 1936 was one-third more than in 1935. THE EXPANDING UNIVERSE

Rhodes Lecturer On Recent Discoveries

Dr. Edwin Hubble, of Mount Wilson Observatory, wound up his Rhodes lectures in the Milner Hall of Rhodes House recently by observing that recent discoveries offered a choice between a small expanding universe and a universe of immense but unknown dimensions, plus a new principle of Nature.

It was possible that the theory might be generalised to include new models. Otherwise the probabilities at the moment seemed to favour the greater universe, although a definite choice would doubtless await more powerful methods or still greater telescopes.

Moscow Attempt To Kill Vishinsky

London, Feb. 6.

The attempted assassination of a high official of the Soviet Government caused great excitement in Moscow yesterday, when a fusillade of shots shattered the glass of a motor-car in which the Public Prosecutor, M. Vishinsky, was riding.

Following the attempt on the life of the man who obtained the conviction of the thirteen accused in the Moscow mass trial, a force of 1,000 special guards were stationed on the wall of the Kremlin to prevent any possibility of an attack on Stalin.

Although the capital is outwardly calm there is an undercurrent of unrest in which rumour follows rumour with bewildering rapidity.

M. Vishinsky was returning to Moscow by night from Borodino, says the London "Daily Express," when the attempt on his life occurred.

The windows of the car were shattered when a volley suddenly crashed out but the chauffeur, with great presence of mind, accelerated out of range.

Neither M. Vishinsky, nor the chauffeur were hurt nor have the assailants been traced.—Transocean News Service.

FINAL SPURT GIVES RIFLES A DRAW

Lee Wai Tong's Brilliant Hat-Trick

BY BEN MADIGAN.

After being outplayed for fully three quarters of the game during their encounter with South China "A" at Caroline Hill yesterday, Rifles exerted pressure for a brief ten minutes and scored the equalising goals. The feature of a thrilling game was Lee Wai Tong's brilliant hat-trick. The inability of the Rifles' defence to cope with the bewildering pattern-weaving movements of the Chinese forward line, particularly in the first half, was very noticeable.

The first half was all South China, Fung King Cheong, Lee Wai Tong and Lai Shui Wing doing absolutely what they liked to a bewildered defence. How shots from Lee Wai Tong and Lai Shui Wing missed their objective remains a mystery. Rifles were awarded a penalty for an alleged foul on Moore but Pickering drove the resultant kick yards wide of Pau Ka Ping.

Lee Wai Tong burst through in real "Ted Drake" style and beat Connors hands down. South China continued to dominate. Lee Wai Tong excelling himself with brilliant dribbling and shooting.

The final result of the game was three goals to two in favour of Eastern. Cheng Sui Hong opened the scoring from a penalty kick awarded for "hands," the same player netting the second goal while Hon Sing To contributed the winning point. Hagen scored for the Saints early in the first half while Leonard added the second goal from a "spot-kick" for an infringement against Hagen.

SAINTS' PLAYERS ORDERED OFF

The Senior League encounter between St. Joseph's and Eastern at Happy Valley on Saturday was marred by some incidents which spoiled what promised to be a first-class match. A free-for-all ensued in which even the spectators joined in.

The events culminated in four players from the St. Joseph's team being sent off the field and when the final whistle was sounded crowds invaded the field and attacked the players and officials.

RECREIO SCORE DESERVING WIN

Recreio pleased their supporters when they defeated a strong Athletic side in a First Division League match at Caroline Hill by three clear goals.

A quick and constructive brand of football was displayed by the Recreio side, whose entire forward line showed excellent form. The winners would have won by a bigger score, but their forwards had the most unfortunate luck with their shooting, several of their shots either hitting the crossbar or glancing off the side-posts.

POLICE LACK UNDERSTANDING

The spectators at the Seafarths v. Police Senior Division encounter at Sookunpoo on Saturday were treated to a mediocre brand of football when the former ran out winners by six goals to one. The Seafarths were opportunists enough to seize on their opponent's blunders to score two of their goals.

FUSILIERS' PLAY DISAPPOINTING

A general lack of enthusiasm featured the Fusiliers' play in their First Division encounter with Kowloon on the latter's ground on Saturday, in which the soldiers suffered a defeat at the hands of the civilian side by three goals to one. From start to finish the Fusiliers were disappointing from the spectators' point of view.

Kowloon's victory might be better explained by their adopting a robust policy and they succeeded in keeping the Fusiliers at bay throughout the game. The final score was a true indication of the general play.

The opening goal was scored by Roberts for the Fusiliers, but Blake responded for Kowloon while Bowen converted two penalties before the half-time whistle.

S. CHINA'S WIN

South China "B" scored an easy victory of six goals to one in their First Division encounter with the Club at the Valley on Saturday. Strangely, the Club had easily the better of the game almost throughout, more than two-thirds of the play taking place in the Chinese half of the field.

It was only towards the end of the game that South China seized every opportunity to beat the Club's defence. The Chinese forwards played open football with rapid passing and quick shooting but they crowded too close to one another and always attempted to get to close quarters before trying a shot.

Elliot scored the Club's only goal, while Chan Tak Fai and Cheuk Shek Kam netted the goals for South China.

KOWLOON WIN JUNIOR CRICKET SHIELD

Police Beaten By Vastly Superior Team

HIGH SCORING IN FRIENDLIES

As the result of their win over the Police Recreation Club at King's Park on Saturday, the Kowloon Cricket Club carried off the Second Division Cricket Championship for the season—an honour which has eluded them since 1921-1922.

The result was a foregone conclusion as it was hardly to be expected that the Police team, comprised mainly of Second Division players, would be able to beat the K.C.C. team which included no less than three former Interport players—G. C. Burnett and F. I. Zimmerman of Hong Kong and T. A. Midler of Shanghai—and also W. C. Hung, who only early this season had turned out for their senior team.

Apart from the K.C.C.-Police match, there was only one other League fixture in which the University did well to force a draw against the Army "A". There were, however, several friendlies, and on the whole followers of cricket were provided with a good afternoon's sport.

K.C.C. Win

At King's Park, the Kowloon Cricket Club beat Police Recreation Club by eight wickets.

At Causeway Bay on Saturday the Army beat the Navy by two goals, a dropped goal, two tries and a penalty goal (23 points) to two goals (10 points) in a friendly Rugby football match.

Neither team was at full strength and the game was spoiled to a certain extent by the frequent "whistles." The teams were: Army:—Spr. Boyley, L/Cpl. Jones, Fus. Watts, Lieut. Daventry and Sgt. THE RIFLE ASSOCIATION

Sgt. Blandford Again Wins Spoon

A Spoon and Practice Shoot was held by the Association on Saturday afternoon by the courtesy of the Naval Authorities on their range at Stonecutters. Conditions were average, the light being dull, while the wind gave little trouble to the competitors.

As will be seen from the detailed scores given below, Sgt. Blandford of the Royal Marines, once again won the "net" spoon, while Rtn. Managh of the 1st Bn. Royal Ulster Rifles won the handicap one, for scores made with the S.R. (b) rifle.

The improvement in shooting which has been such a noticeable feature of late, since the issue of the "1914" rifle was made to members of the Dockyard Rifle Club, has been so pronounced that the Association is about to revise all the handicaps which have been made to those members of the Association who are now using the "1914" rifle. At the same time it must be clearly understood that the "packed" S.M.L.E. rifle is as good as, and at the longer ranges, definitely better than, the "1914" weapon, and for this reason there can be no question under any circumstances of a handicap awarded to a member when using the S.R. (b) rifle, being altered because he has now changed over to the "1914" weapon. The one reason which causes the revision in the handicap of any member, is that his "form" has now so improved, that his original handicap obviously gives him an unfair advantage over his fellow competitors.

The Annual Report

Notices are being sent out next week to all individual full members, informing them that the first Annual General Meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 23, probably at Shamshuipo Camp. It will commence at 5.45 p.m., and in order that the proceedings shall not be unduly prolonged, it has been arranged that the Annual Report and Balance Sheet will be published in the forthcoming issue of the Association's "Bulletin," so that, if approved it may be "taken as read."

Highlanders To Shoot

A number of members of the 1st Bn. The Seafarths Highlanders are expected to attend the mid-week Spoon and Practice Shoot of the Association, for the first time next Wednesday. This unit has this week become affiliated to the Association, and a large number of its members are expected to join as individual full members by the end of the present month.

The printing and publication of the Programme of the forthcoming Prize Meeting is now well in hand, and it is hoped that, by the end of this month, copies will be available for distribution to those interested.

The "Blasie" Rifle Club of the 1st Bn. Royal Ulster Rifles has very kindly presented the Association with an electric clock, which will be placed in the central Clubroom in the Association's new Clubhouse at the Army Ranges at Kowloon City, as soon as it arrives from home.

On Wednesday, Feb. 17, there will be a Chinese dinner at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden at 8 p.m. Ladies only.

The Shanghai team leaves for the North aboard the P. and O. liner Nalders on Thursday.

COMMENT

Regarding the Colony team, newcomers to Interport honours are Miss Olive Datzel, Miss F. Marsh, Mrs. Donald and Miss Glover.

Misses Gray, Fowler, Wong, Smith and Westcott played for the Colony against Shanghai last year in the North while Miss Iris Woolley was a reserve. In 1935, on the occasion of the first visit of the Shanghai team, Miss Woolley, Mrs. Rose, Miss Gray, Miss J. Wong and Miss Smith played for Hong Kong.

The Rest team contains three Interporters among its ranks. They are Mrs. Lunson and Miss Gittins, who played in Shanghai last year, and Miss B. Pope, who was the Colony pivot in 1935. Miss Joan Smalley was a reserve in the Colony team last year.

STRONG TEAM

There is very little room for comment regarding the Interport team, except to state that it is a very strong combination in attack and defence. Miss Jessie Wong has been entrusted the important position of pivot and should acquit herself well. Mrs. Donald, leader of the attack, will be a thorn in the Northern Ladies defence while the Smith-Westcott left wing combination will keep the Shanghai right-half busy. Miss Olive Datzel and Miss Marsh, on the right flank, are both speedy.

PEN PICTURES OF COLONY TEAM

(By R. H. B.)

Mrs. R. Rose (St. Andrew's Ladies—Interport 1935)—Born at Jeselton, British North Borneo. Mrs. Rose has been playing hockey since 1925 when she first played for the Diocesan Girls' School. In 1930, she joined the St. Andrew's Club Ladies and has held the position of goalkeeper ever since.

Miss E. M. Gray (H.K.L.H.C.—Interport 1935, 1936)—Born at Oxford. Miss Gray first played for Upton School, Oxford, in 1917 and 1918. Later, at Reading University, she was reserve centre-half for the first eleven and a member of the second team. During the years 1928-29-30 she played for the London Hockey Club. Early in 1929 she arrived in the Colony and joined the H.K. Ladies Hockey Club for whom she has played "at right-back" ever since.

Miss A. Fowler (Y.M.C.A. Ladies—Interport, 1936). One of the hardest hitters in local ladies hockey, Miss Fowler is a fearless tackler and has been a stalwart in the Y. Ladies defence for several seasons. She played for the Rest of the Colony in 1935 and gained Interport recognition last year.

Miss I. Woolley (C.B.A. Ladies—Interport 1935). Born in Hong Kong, Miss Woolley has been playing hockey since 1929. She first took an interest in the game in 1930 when she played for the Central British Association Ladies in friendly matches. In 1932 she joined the St. Andrew's Ladies for whom she played until 1935 when she joined the C.B.A. Ladies. Is a very good speller in the intermediate line.

Miss J. Wong (St. Andrew's Ladies—Interport, 1935, 1936)—Born in Queensland, Australia, she learned the rudiments of hockey in the early part of 1930 and commenced serious play for the Diocesan Girls' School in 1931. The following year she joined the St. Andrew's Ladies and has played pivot for them ever since.

Miss K. Glover (H.K.L.H.C.)—A most useful defender and cool even under heavy pressure. Tackles well and is a tireless worker. Has appeared in the Hong Kong Ladies Hockey Club intermediate line for the past few seasons.

Miss Olive Datzel (Y.M.C.A. Ladies)—Has figured prominently in the Caer Clark Cup League for several seasons, playing at right wing. A sister of Mrs. Sybil Gardner, the Interporter, she is very speedy and centre with much accuracy.

Miss F. Marsh (H.K.L.H.C.)—Played for the Rest of the Colony against Shanghai Ladies in 1935. Is a very useful forward with a good burst of speed. Has played regularly in the Caer Clark Cup competition.

Mrs. Donald (H.K.L.H.C.)—Coming to the Colony only recently from England, Mrs. Donald is perhaps one of the finest centre-forwards seen here for a long time. Has good stick work and is deadly when in the dec. A real goal-getter.

Miss M. Smith (Y.M.C.A. Ladies—Interport 1935, 1936)—She started to play hockey at the Diocesan Girls' School in 1927, and in 1933 joined the Central British Association for whom she played until this season. She is one of the most dangerous forwards in the Colony.

Miss M. Westcott (Y.M.C.A. Ladies—Interport, 1936)—One of the best left wings in the Colony and in the Caer Clark Cup competition. Has vastly improved during the past few seasons. Played for Hong Kong again Shanghai last year.

HOME RUGGER BATTLE

Scotland Win At Swansea

Swansea, Feb. 6.

Scotland opened their 1936-37 season with a splendid victory over Wales, the champions, who sustained their second successive defeat, losing by two goals and a try (13 points) to two tries (6 points) before a crowd of 45,000 spectators in glorious weather, but on a fairly soft ground.

In the 13th minute of the game, Wooler, the Welsh left-centre three-quarter, seized upon a dropped Scottish pass and raced from the half-way mark across the Scottish goal-line for a grand try, but James failed to add the goal points.

McCrie, Scotland's left-centre three-quarter, dodged a tackle and passed to Dick, the Scots' right-centre for a splendid try behind the posts, but G. Shaw missed a fairly easy goal-kick.

A rush by Scottish forwards ended in G. Shaw sending Dick over for a score, the former converting to give Scotland the lead.

The Welshmen retaliated strongly, but twice missed certain tries through knocking on. Kerr, the Scottish full-back, later fielded a kick by Morris, the Welsh stand-off-half, and passed to R. Shaw, who scored a try without being opposed. G. Shaw again added the goal points. Just before time, Wooler broke through for Wales' second try. Wales had only themselves to blame for their defeat as they had many opportunities. Reuter.

Kumaons Win

After a goalless first half, the Kumaon Rifles defeated the Nomads by 2 goals to 1 in a friendly hockey match on the Marina ground yesterday. The goal-scorers were Kishna Singh (2) and N. Barretto.

Developing Civil Aviation

Starting from the conclusion that commercial flying in the British Isles can only be made self-supporting by the restriction of competition, the increase in the number of hours flown annually by the operating aircraft and the economical regulation of its services to that end, the Maybury Committee, appointed to consider the development of civil aviation in the United Kingdom, have recommended a limited scheme designed to realize these objects and also to link up the system with the requirements of the Post Office for the carriage of mails by night. The Committee's report, issued recently, is directed largely to the definition of this scheme and of the consequential improvements in the ground organization on which it would depend.

It is pointed out that most of the air lines in this country are losing money, and that their aircraft fly an average of 800 hours a year, whereas they should be in the air at least double that time for economical use. More hours can only be flown if the services are more frequent and the operation is more regular. All-weather flying in this country is possible only by improving the control and wireless organization. The Committee suggest the taking over by the Government of responsibility for these services at an additional capital cost of £320,000, and annual cost of £220,000. Frequent services over long routes would require a big fleet of aircraft. The Committee propose a scheme whereby a number of services would radiate from a junction and so give connections to all the distant stations without through services to any of them. By this means a route mileage of 2,900, which would be required to link these places independently, could be reduced to 960 miles.

NIGHT MAILS.
The scheme proposed for this first experiment is that of creating a junction near Manchester and Liverpool for the service of Belfast, Glasgow-Edinburgh, Newcastle-on-Tyne, London, Southampton-Portsmouth, and Bristol. For four round trips a day over the whole system 16 aircraft would be required, and would each fly some 1,500 hours a year. In addition, use could be made of the system for the carriage of night mails leaving the respective terminal between 8.15 and 11.45 p.m. daily. The Committee suggest giving a five years' exclusive licence to a selected operating company and recommend the appointment of a licensing authority to make the selection in this case and to grant licences which need not be exclusive on other routes.

The report indicates that London is likely to be served shortly by a total of seven aerodromes, and it disapproves the suggestions which have been made for the creation of a central aerodrome or of a roof aerodrome. The Committee were unable to respond to the request of the Aerodrome Owners' Association for guidance as to where the main air routes will be established, remarking that further experience is needed before an adequate picture of future air lines can be drawn.

STATE LOAN IN AUSTRIA

Trade Stimulation Ambitions

Vienna, Feb. 8.
The issue of a state loan of 180 million schillings, the proceeds of which will be used to stimulate industry and thus provide employment on an extensive scale has been decided upon by the Schuschnigg Government according to a communication made by Finance Minister to pressmen on Saturday. The loan will be issued at 90 and bear interest at 4½ per cent., but 54 million schillings will be used to redeem short-term treasury bills issued to balance the 1936 budget.

A sum of 17½ millions will be employed to cover investment in the current year, 22 millions for equipment of the Austrian army, 22 millions for road building, and considerable amounts for continuing the electrification on the most important Austrian railways. The loan will be repayable in 30 years and will necessitate an increase in debt about 11 million schillings which will be covered by the increase of stamp duties.

The Finance Minister also told reporters that the Austrian Government is determined to liquidate the 1930 international federal loan, but that international conversations would first be necessary.

BERLIN SHARE MARKET

Berlin, Feb. 8.
No definite tendency made itself apparent on the share market on Saturday, business transacted being small in volume. The lively tone that prevailed on Friday had led operators to conclude that the bull movement they had been expecting since the Fuehrer's speech last Saturday had at last set in, especially as the excellent statement of accounts presented by the Siemens concern put investors in good mood and operators accordingly bought for a rise.

The money market continues very liquid despite the fact that gold discount at the banks has increased by 360 millions marks since January 1.

£700,000 Windfall For Charities

SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S ESTATE

Six years after the death of Sir Thomas Lipton, the famous business magnate and yachtsman, steps have now been taken finally to wind up his estates.

An agreement approved by the High Court for the sale of his American interests, together with rubber and tea estates in Ceylon, which have been held in trust since his death, was announced recently.

One of the trustees stated that under Sir Thomas Lipton's will the amount realised by the sale will go to Glasgow charities, which are expected to receive over £700,000.

It is likely that the three big firms in Glasgow will benefit considerably from the windfall, and that other charitable concerns in the city will receive a generous amount.

BARDS ATTEND OLD BAILEY

The Old Bailey has seldom been filled with a less criminally minded people than those who had succeeded in getting into the courtroom to hear the trial recently of the three Welsh Nationalists. Among the listeners were a number of bards who had won chairs and crowns at the National Eisteddfod. Will Ifan, who is a brother-in-law of Mr. D. J. Williams, Dewi Emrys, Crwys, and Caradog Prichard were present, and a large number of Welsh graduates. Probably the majority of the visitors, like the three in the dock, were products of the Welsh University.

A feature of the proceedings was the absence of any Welsh politicians. Sir Robert Armstrong-Jones and Lady T. Armitage-Jones and Mr. John Hugh Edwards were among those who followed the proceedings with the keenest interest.
